

Global Politics and international relations

1. Introduction

2. Contextualizing the significance of global politics and international relations in 21st century

3. Illustrations of global politics and international relations

3.1) The bystander effect of the US-China trade war

3.2) The global energy crisis post Ukraine war

3.3) Politics of climate change affecting the world

3.4) BRI vs B3W race for economic hegemony

35) Alliances like QUAD and AUKUS to contain China

4. Why changing dynamics are being witnessed in global politics and international relations

4.1) Role of International Monetary Fund (IMF) in shaping global politics and international relations

4.2) Economic globalization of arc enemies - the US and China arc enemies but largest trading partners

4.3) Rise of China has remade global politics and international relations

4.4) The rise of Russia's new imperialism

4.5) Diversification of relations of countries - Middle eastern countries tilt towards Russia despite being biggest United States supporter.

5. Way forward

Date: _____

4.1) Independence of countries to promote cooperation instead of competition

4.2) Transfer of technology from global north to global south to fight climate change and cyber warfare

4.3) Economic globalization to create a win win situation for the countries to enhance trade

4.4) Restructuring the Security Council to make it more effective in 21st century

4.5) Combat terrorism by mutual cooperation - terrorist anywhere is a threat everywhere

6. Conclusion