

DATE: / /

Conclusion:

There is a theory in International Relations that "There are no permanent friends or foes, only permanent interests." Previously the cordial relation between France and England, East and West Germany, USA and Japan. Now example of Iran and USA is just the new chapter of another cordial relation. After all, anything is better than war.

what is this??

upload complete answer for evaluation