

Topic:

Environmental Terrorism: a threat for poor countries

Paragraph:

1. Topic Sentence:

Environmental terrorism has emerged as a new threat for poor and developing countries.

2. Explanatory Sentence:

It is, actually, the terrorism committed by developed and wealthy nations against the developing nations by using the environment as a tool.

3. Supporting points and examples:

Developed countries has been ~~using~~ & exploiting the natural resources, especially the fossil fuels, ruthlessly for the sake of their economic development. For instance, France and England import large amount of timber from tropical regions, without any environmental safeguards. Similarly, Developed countries are also responsible for huge emission of Carbon dioxide (CO_2) and Green House Gases (GHGs), which add to the woes of Climate Change. According to World Meteorological organization, about 70 per cent of GHGs are produced only by United States of America (USA), European Union (EU), China, India, and Japan.

4. Conclusion:

Thereby, taking into consideration the above arguments, it can easily be stated that developed countries are the culprits of environmental terrorism while the developing countries are the victims.
