The conflict between Russia and Ukraine is a serious threat to the global peace. Russia sharing border with Ukraine have a very long history. Trace back to 1991 when Soviet Union (USSR) torn into 15 pieces. Ukraine was among those 15 parts and indeed having the most number of nuclear weapon. In 1994 USA collaborated with Russia to disarm Ukraine by offering complete protection of Ukraine. At that time Ukraine accepted the deal and return all their nuclear weapon.

Later in 2004. Unfair election was conducted in Ukraine in which a pro-russian won the election but was not succeeded to make govt because of the protest of Ukraine people. In 2010 the same politician won the election and became the President of Ukraine. Soon after he became president, he signed a gas deal with Russia in the same year, which confirmed his R. pro-Russian mindset. In 2014 he rejected a deal with European Union. Due to which Ukraine people started a movement against him. He then suddenly moved from Ukraine.

Ukraine is very important country for Russia. Technically Ukraine is divided into three parts. The eastern part is tilted toward the communist Russia, while the central and western block is more in favour of the capitalist block.

→ So After the Ukraine president fled from Ukraine, the tension increased in Ukraine. Russia annexed through a local referendum, and gave the statement that Russia will always protect the rights of their people. The same year two other states 'Luhansk and Donetsk
