Topic = Hindus deception was the main cause of Pakistan's Independence.

In British-India, Muslims were being suppressed by both Britishers and Hindus which led the foundation of new land - Pakistan.

Explanatory

Dating all the way back to the early days of British rule, when both - Hindus and Muslims, were deprived from of their religious, political and economical rights. After that, they started resistance to British.

Example:

~~when~~ In 1857, they started revolt against East India company and declared war of independence.

Explanatory:

But, the burden of war wholly bore by only Muslims because ~~British~~ Hindus put them at <sup>the</sup> side of British and ~~gained~~ <sup>received</sup> high prestige from British.

They were appointed at good ranks. So, Muslims were realized that Hindus ~~were~~ <sup>never</sup> been a good friends. They started their political struggle for representation.

Example:

They demanded separate electorate in 1909 and then started movements for the new homeland - Pakistan.

Conclusion: In the very start, Hindus and Muslims were united, but Hindus' deception forced them to get independence.
