Rough Draft

Every person consider himself as the best among ~~all~~ ~~eth~~ each other. Some goes for states, that they are greatest in the world. But in reality neither person nor state is perfect in all aspects. They must replace ~~go~~ some bad qualities with good ones. States should opt good qualities from other states for the wellbeing of general public.

Solution:-

It is the human nature which realizes him as the best among all. Likewise some goes for the states, they consider them as greatest in the world. But on reality grounds, no one is perfect in its full essence, there is some space left for evolution. Both of them should avoid bad qualities and learn good qualities from each other, for the wellbeing of humanity.
