

4. Trees give shade for the benefit of others and while they themselves are scorched by the sun and endure scorching heat, they produce the fruit by which others profit. The character of good men is like that of trees. What is the use of this perishable body, if no use of it is made for the benefit of mankind? Sandalwood — the more it is rubbed the more scent does it yield. Sugarcane — the more it is peeled and cut into pieces, the more juice does it produce. Gold — the more it is burnt, the more brightly does it shine. The men who are noble at heart do not lose these qualities even in losing their lives. What does it matter whether men praise them or not? What difference does it make whether riches abide with them or not? What does it signify whether they die at this moment or whether their lives are prolonged? Happen what may, those who tread in the right path will not set foot in any other. Life itself is unprofitable to a man who does not live for others. To live for the mere sake of living one's life is to live the life of dogs and cows. Those who lay down their lives for the sake of a friend, or even for the sake of a stranger, will assuredly dwell forever in a world of bliss.

Legacy of a noble man

Day: 72 words

Trees are beneficials for others by providing shade and fruits. A great man personality is like a tree benefiting others. Legacy of people who are good at heart remains even after their demise. One should not benefit people for seeking validation from others. Life doesn't favour those who live for themselves. One's life is like that life of dogs or cows who solely live for himself. One ^{those} who gives up ~~their~~ ^{lives} for good cause will reside in heaven.
