

Subheading: To address the security issues of the world, there must be reforms in UNSC

To address the security issues of the world, there must be reforms in United Nations Security Council (UNSC). The reason is that things have drastically changed in the world, and without bringing changes in UNSC, security issues cannot be addressed in letter and spirit. Many saner voices have been emphasizing for several years that certain reforms are crucial in UNSC to bring peace in the world. For example, in May 2023, UN Secretary General Antonio Guterres said that there must be changes in Security Council because problems 'of today are different from those of 1945' (Maleeha Lodhi, 'Why UNSC reform is elusive', May 2023). In this way, in order to bring peace in the world, UNSC must be reformed.
