

Middle east & great global game

The China is emerging with a soft power at global perspective. China is being played significant role in middle east as mediator. It is a relative new comer in a middle east, because of his economic interest. Moreover, being in a middle east China is struggling for political, economic, and lesser security interest in the middle east. It is also playing a significant role as external investor with many countries. However, China is more interested in middle east because of Belt Road Initiative. It concerns, for energy demand and BRI in the middle east. In 2015, China was the biggest importer of crude oil and half of them were imported from middle east. This ~~road~~ road will connect the Europe, Asia, and Africa. In future, middle east will be a network of trade and energy and China is interested only for the BRI and regional politics.

China engaged in middle east on two policies, BRI and 2016 Arab policy. China believes on development peace rather than democratic peace.
