

Economic crisis in Pakistan: Challenges and solutions. Introductory Paragraph.

The economy is the start and end of everything. You can not have successful education reforms or any other reform if you don't have a strong economy" (David Carnross). Economy is the backbone of every country for its survival and progress. A weak economy means a vulnerable state. Unfortunately, Pakistan has a feeble economy and due to it, Pakistan is in hot water. It is the economy which makes the country strong and able to serve its masses. Now a days Pakistan's economy has many challenges such as political instability, inconsistent economic policies, the pursuit of wrong priorities, bad governance and poor administration, extremely low tax revenues and reduced Foreign Direct Investment (FDI). Moreover, there are solutions to economic crisis as well such as overcoming political unrest, to make consistent economic policies,
