The nourishment of a plant becomes a decisive factor in determining whether it would be healthy or wilted. Numerous elements contribute heavily, such as water, which can be provided in multiple ways. Education plays a similar role in human development that distinguishes the literate person from an illiterate one. The revolutionized world has opened avenues and given birth to remote learning, which proves to be an alternative to the traditional classroom setting. Online learning is a modern way to acquire knowledge and is accessible to many. Its convenient methodology has made it possible to gain skills through individual's own designed schedule and comfort. Whereas traditional mode of learning emphasizes the importance of physical presence and facilitates engaging group-discussions. It gave birth to hard-cover books giving access to knowledge. However, both methods proves to be essential but Online learning has set the bar higher. The provision of global resources through e-books and diverse platforms enhances the effectiveness of online learning as a mode of education.
