Title:

The responsibility of Educational Institution to to teach social morality

The survival of a man lies in the appropriate use of intelligence which requires kindness and love. To acquire these abilities is a challenge to educational institutions. Earlier, the practice of social morality was the responsibility of theologian. But they failed to teach humans empathy. Man resulted into tempting lures of wealth and power. He used immoral methods to achieve his goals resulting in nuclear devastation. The educators and educational institutions can enhance human intelligence with love, security and integrity which are the instruments of social morality.
