Man's fear and mysteries of life and Universe lead him to believe in God which regulated the universe and controller of his fate. He required the knowledge of desire through soothsayers who know the signs and signals of God. They used to interpret instances of lightning, thunder, birds' movement, fire direction and those related to sacrificed animals. Interpretation of dreams and Palmistry were also in trend. In many cases, God conveyed their message through prophets. In ancient Greece, each oracle was linked to one God. Apollo was the prominent God who used to convey to men the command of God. The oracles functioned with the assistance of God respectively.
