

Journey of Art in Greeks

Greeks look at the nature from different angle and do not allow their artists to draw the pictures of the external nature. Author thinks people of old era were not interested, neither in the beauty of nature nor the hurdles come to them in their survival. People were living along with daggers drawn animals but didn't find nature friendly. He don't think greeks need more attention even if they are living hard life and the only source of their happiness was the sea. In the beginning they did not find it beneficiary. ~~to them~~ Hence they don't like nature so donot give proper attention to art. They were living ordinary life than complex life. After the collapse of greeks republics people rushes into the beauty of nature and they find all kinds of art from Alexader's day onwards.
