

Topic:- Is Maintaining World Peace Responsibility of Only Super Powers?

OUTLINE

1) Introduction

Thesis Statement: Super powers may take initiatives for peace keeping missions but it would not be right to state that they are the only responsible. The world, be it developing or developed countries, has to contribute for maintaining world peace.

2) What Does World Peace Requires?

3) Role of Super Powers in Maintaining World Peace

3.1) Initiatives for establishing peace keeping organizations

(Case in point: major role of the USA and other powerful countries in establishing United Nations Organizations)

3.2) Helping countries to resolve disputes among them

(Case in point: China's role in Saudi-Iranian conflict)

3.3) Surveillance over the globe to avoid wars and mass destruction

(Case in point: Iran's nuclear engineering and the USA's sanctions)

4) Why Is Maintaining World Peace Not Responsibility of Only Super Powers?

4.1) Without participation of each country, peace keeping organizations cannot run

(Case in point: Failure of League of Nations)

4.2) No country can cope with terrorist outfits without the assistance of the country terrorists live in

(Case in point: Death of Osama Bin Laden)

4.3) Tussle in a bid to gain regional hegemony can only be resolved through ~~their~~ mutual consent of countries in conflict

(Case in point: Saudi-Iranian Tussle)

4.4) Nuclear war threat can not be eradicated unless the world countries cooperate

(Case in point: Nuclear threat of North Korea)

4.5) Climate ~~the~~ Change - an existential threat - requires global cooperation

Case in point: The Billion Tree Tsunami

4.6) Peaceful coexistence of border sharing states cannot be achieved without bilateral cooperation

(Case in point: Indo-Pak conflict on Kashmir)

4.7) Cooperation and cultural acceptance requires mutual agreement at individual level

(Case in point: Cultural issues between East and West)

4.8) Super powers have no worthy role until the individuals within the country does not realize their due rightful share to strengthen their nation's economy.

(A case study of India's economic growth)

5) Recipe to Ensure World Peace as a Global Responsibility Rather than Being the Responsibility of Only Super Powers

5.1) Role of international organizations to ensure equality and justice

5.2) Realization of essence of globalization as a fruitful process for the entire world

5.3) Global acceptance and respect for existing religions and social cohesion

6) Conclusion
