

Title: Envy brings unhappiness

Envy is a common phenomenon in human life which brings calamities. Therefore, despite happiness, the envious people do not want that others can acquire benefit and they try to bring disharmony among them. Some professionals such as doctors, scientists, engineers and many others feel shy to sit among lower class people due to their self-respect. However, admiration is a solution to reduce the envy and bring happiness. Besides, a good person can also provide recommendation to decrease envy. Happiness can overcome the envy but envy is the impediment in the happy life of human beings. Bringing joyfulness in human life for envious people is impossible. Therefore, the reducing the envy is impossible through understanding the reason of envy.
