Title : Vacation to the Town of Qualla Boundary

The author visited the mountainous and scenic town of Qualla Boundary, Oklahoma with a friend. Its traditional lifestyle, the tribal craft and repeatedly played pageant "Unto these hills" painted an image of 18th century Cherokee. There the author visited a souvenir shop where they met a local English speaker, who told them about "Bingo Weekend" an event on Fridays where a large bingo hall is opened and different games are played. It is the main source of income for the natives during the tour off-peak period other than trade. On the final stop, they visited the local museum where different types of art representing the area's history were displayed.
