

Subheading: Females must be allowed to abort if there is any danger to their health

all over the world

Females of the world must be allowed to abort if there is any danger to their health. Failure to do so will cause many an issue for them. In this time and age, right to abort in any danger is upheld by the constitutions of many countries, so that females can have better health. For instance, article 9 of the constitution of Pakistan talks of protecting the health. It also mentions that females are able to access abortion services to preserve their physical and mental health without acquiring the approval of third parties. Given all that, in order to ensure proper health for females, they must be given the right to abort in case of emergency. medical

Elaborate

According to my Google search, abortion related provisions are part of Pakistan's Penal Code where abortion is referred to as 'Isqat-e-Haml' and 'Isqat-e-Janin' under articles 338, 338A, 338B, and 338C.

On the other hand, article 9 of Pakistan constitution is worded as follows without any mention to abortion:

No person shall be deprived of life or liberty save in accordance with law.
