Why do I want to qualify for the CSS examination.

I do want to qualify for the CSS examination and landed in Pakistan's bureaucracy ^{because} of the job security, no time restriction, and the dearth of great my creativity skills. Facing CSS has been my dream since my childhood; In fact, after landing in the private sector, I feel the real importance of why do I want to qualify for the CSS examination. First, in the private sector, job security is the main challenge, whereas, in government job as bureaucracy, one has no fear of losing ^{one's} his job. Secondly, I have always been a night owl, which makes me late to the office ~~every~~ daily; however, in bureaucracy time is not an issue. At least, since my birth, I have never been a creative person, and the monotonous work methodology of bureaucracy makes me the ideal candidate for bureaucracy of Pakistan. Hence, if one has the same characteristic as mine, so he should always opt for bureaucracy for his future, over working in the private sector.
