

: United Nation Aspects:

The United Nation (UN) was formed to maintain Peace and stability among countries just after the world war II. It was joined by almost all countries in the world because all were grappled in severe multidimensional crisis. The P5 countries so-called permanent members of UN such as US, UK, France, China and Russia. The P5 countries were also given veto power because they were powerful and influential countries. In addition, the countries demanded to increase the permanent and non-permanent members of the UN because populations of countries and countries itself are increasing with each passing day. For instance, G4 countries which include India, Germany, Brazil and Japan are requiring the seats in permanent and non-permanent memberships in the UN. Moreover, they are arguing that the selection will be on the ground of economic prosperity, political contribution and involvement in the all forms of contribution in UN. Further, they - G4 - also backed by two countries of P5: UK and US. On the contrary, the Uniting For Consensus (UFC) are made and led by Italy in which Pakistan also included. It aims to counter the actions of G4 countries, and it wants to be part of non-permanent member of UN. In short, more member by effective selection would be more democratic position and accountable among^{the} countries of the UN.
