

Sometimes we do not see what we see

1/ Introduction

Thesis statement: Individuals hold different worldviews. These worldviews are shaped by various factors that can lead to selective perception. However, by making constant efforts, individuals can ~~broaden~~ broaden their perspectives.

2/ Crunch Paragraph

3/ Factors that shape human perception

- a, Nurturing in a certain environment
- b, Social norms influence one's perception
(e.g. direct eye contact: respect in some cultures and aggression in others)
- c, Perception is based on experience
- d, Certain emotions shape one's perspective
(i.e. Franz Kafka's writings are influenced by his negative emotions: sadness and despair)
- e, Education plays a critical role in building perspectives

4) The fallacy of selective perception

- a, it leads to biased decision-making
(For example, voting for a political candidate based on selective information)
- b, it breeds resentment
(e.g Islamophobia)
- c, it hinders growth and advancement
(case in point, Resistance of the Muslims of sub-continent to modern education and English language)
- d, Poor problem-solving skills due to selective perception
- e, It decrease creativity

5, How to overcome limitation on Perception?

- a, Through awareness of one's own biases
- b, Seeking diverse perspectives
- c, Practicing empathy

6, Conclusion