

Practice Paragraph.

① Knowledge is understanding and awareness of something. This means the knowledge, facts, skills and wisdom gained through the experiences of life. Knowledge is a broad concept and it has no end. Acquiring knowledge includes cognitive processes, communication, perception and logic. Recognizing and accepting the truth is also a human ability. Knowledge can be used for both positive and negative purposes. In the same way, knowledge can create and destroy at the same time. Knowledge can be used for the Community, City, state and nations as well as personal development.

② There is no such things in God," black man said, "God is love and love is God. Love is not what you call love. I spent my entire life in the service of humans because it is my wish that the relationship between humans and God, which has been ended, should be restored. If you don't love humans than you don't love God. Serve each other for the sake of love.
