

Temperate countries of Northern Europe are very benefited by Cold Climate. It has been observed that cold climate has stimulating effect. Whereas intense weather cease the energy. In hot weather there is a little motivation to work. Moderate ^{cold} climate has strengthening effects on human whereas in ^{moderately cold} climate one has to utilize ones energy in order to get basic needs. The energy drained to get basic needs is regained by taking energy rich food. The conditions varies in for tropical areas. In the surrounding of equator one can live healthy with just basic needs by fulfilling basic needs. One can observe the similar change in nature of human and weather. In hot weather life is easy in contrast to cold weather.

Title: Weather a stimulus to human nature.

The Effect of Weather on Human Nature

