Title: Climate change and its effects

The cold in temperate countries of Northern Europe has beneficial as well as difficult effects. Author said that energies may end in facing these hurdles but there is hope to overcome obstacles after struggle. Climate change effects differently on human race. In moderate climate man has to manage strong houses, warm clothes, fuel and food to stay healthy and alive. The situation is different in tropical region, near equator the basic needs can easily be fulfilled to sustain life on earth. The difference in human can be seen similar to the seasons of the year. In summer people take life easy as compared to winters in which life needs ^{active} ~~activity~~ human body.

Title : Too Much Activeness is Harmful

Most of the evil in this world is because of active people. They are confuse in their doings but they do. In Author's view devil is the person who constantly active in something. He think that it is the activeness that makes world chaotic. Emperors, kings and many noble personalities also had time for their rest and they were doing better as compared to today's world. The world is full of energy but the need is to spend it in right direction. The rules of hard life should be challenged with showing laziness. If the politicians and religious leaders show some passiveness then this world will be saved from their activities and the people will get an opportunity to restore their mental health.
