

Shift in Global Powers: Supremacy of Ideals or Wealth?

Outline

1- Introduction

Thesis statement: No doubt, shift in global powers leads to the supremacy of wealth. However, there are some critiques who argue against it, but their arguments do not agree to it. This is beyond any doubt that shift in global powers is supremacy of wealth.

2- A bird's eyeriew of shift in global powers

3- Shift in global powers is supremacy towards wealth (Thesis)

- a) China's economic growth using BRI initiative leads to the supremacy of wealth
- b) Supremacy of wealth as glob economic supply enhanced. China's trade internationally
- c) Resurgence of Russia is leading to supremacy of wealth is a major global shift
- d) Economic rise of Indo-Pacific countries stands with the supremacy of wealth
- e) Expansion of BRICS: A global shift toward wealth

4- Shift in global powers is supremacy towards idealism (Anti-thesis)

- a) The US led B3W leads to the world of idealism
- b) Capitalism ideology still controls the international trade
- c) Economic sanctions on Russia paves a way for idealism world
- d) Indo-Pacific participation shows dominance of the supremacy of idealism
- e) G-7 and G-20 have still ideological hegemony

5- Shift in global powers is prevailing towards the supremacy of wealth (Synthesis)

- a) China's role as the second economic power agree to the supremacy of wealth
- b) Countries tend to follow their own independent foreign policies
- c) Despite economic sanctions, the world has concern about the supremacy of wealth
- d) Indo-Pacific partnership itself has deep-roots in economic collaboration
- e) The BRICS cooperation at least is the first step to break the Western supremacy of ideology

6- Conclusion

China's economic growth using BRI initiative leads to the supremacy of wealth

No doubt, the global shift is towards the supremacy of wealth that is clear from one of chief arguments as China's economic growth using BRI initiative leads to the supremacy of wealth. In fact, China's role in leading the globe towards wealth prosperity is the success of the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI). This, as a result, has connected the whole world for the co-operation and enhancement of wealth progress.

As per Chinese Bureau of Statistics, "The BRI is a link between regions and global countries towards economic co-operation to lead to wealth supremacy." (The China Bureau of Statistics, 2021). This shows that China's economic growth using BRI initiative leads to the supremacy of wealth.