Secularian Harmony

In Gilgit-Baltistan, Ulama agreed to put their Secularian differences aside and help the regional government maintain law and order. The main aims of establishing good relation among different sects are to develop the infrastructure of the region, grant quality education, and foster women empowerment. As a result, these factors may bring prosperity in GB and mushroom the literacy rate of GB. Besides these benefits, peace will be preserved in the region, and scratching old wounds among sects will be resolved. Consequently, terrorism and extremism will be failed to exacerbate in GB. Therefore, harmony among Ulama has been established to avoid Secularian differences.
