

Organizational Goals and Coordinated Activities

Organizational goals must be formulated according to the public demand. Hence, the acquisition of set objectives for specific activity should be determine ~~shortly~~ their demands, precisely. Industrial organisations carried out market studies for acquiring skills in production. Organisations are responsible for making and exchanging of goods. Its development is linked with multiple things in the system. Before the Industrial Revolution, cooperative activity was carried out by ~~single~~ ^{one} decision maker and simple organizational goals. By the revolution, hierarchy of decision makers became crucial. Organizational efficiency pursuits the effective

Objectives . Management Process is related to the organizational objectives and their achievements To benefiting both the managers and the contributors the coordinated activities system must be maintained

Total words : 310

word count : 120