Role: The Role of language in the civilization of human Beings.

According to many anthropologists, man ~~are~~ ^{is} both homo sapiens and homo fober. It is the language that creates a difference between these two terms. If a person removes language from his life, he will become a hairless chimpanzee. The other qualities like high IQ are of secondary importance. Without language accumulation of knowledge and broadcasting of information is not possible. Language has played an important role in the formulation of ethical ideas and expression of religious insight. In a nutshell, language has turned person into human beings and gave birth to civilization.
