

Sir Syed Ahmed Khan was born in 1817. His family was associated with the Mughal ~~Empire~~ Court in Delhi.

Sir Syed got his early education at home. He got religious education at home which was a custom at that time.

He also used to attend literary meetings where he had a chance to meet some famous poets like Mirza Ghalib.

Sir Syed's mother was a very pious and intellectual woman.

She raised her child well.

She wanted to make ~~her~~ Sir Syed's moral values so high, so that he could be a good man in future.

Once Sir Syed slapped the servant of his home. When his mother came to know about this, he banished Sir Syed from home and did not allow him to come home until he apologized to servant.

Sir Syed's father died when ^{he} was very young. This led to ~~the~~ take burden of his home's responsibilities to his side. He got a job of junior clerk.

Sir Syed made a huge reforms in educational services during the post war of independence era. ~~The post-war era~~
During the ^{war of} post-independence era, ^{and weak} the morale of Muslims was so down. The political, economic and social position of Musl.