The British leaders had encouraged the idiomatic language as a tool for the civility and obedience. And it was followed by the people of sub-continent at that time. Including Sir Syed Khan's productions and the creation of his bright-minded son, Mahmood, has also tried of using such language. So, that they may occupy the same place as Britishers.

In 1857, The story of Agra court was not only known to Muslims but the whole nation of India knew about that. Sir Syed has decided to part his ways. Because the people of India was awarded the positions junior to the Britishers. In that court, Sir Syed was about to award a prize but later on the merit board awarded that to Williamson. So that on their behalf, he may award this prize to Sir Syed at the station of Ali Garh.
