

~~Ques~~ Greek's antagonism of Nature.
~~Ques~~
Greeks were blessed by nature. Nature blessed Greeks with beautiful landscape; but they didn't enjoy it neither expressed this beauty in their poetry or art. Their ^{hilly} landscape did not allow agriculture. It was a home to many wild animals and it proved disastrous in times of natural calamities. Similarly in Homer, the sea was the main source of their livelihood but ~~they~~ ^{people} disregarded it. During the times of Greek republic no major revolution came to change their attitude regarding nature which they see with fear and discontentment. Then with the end of Greek republic this natural beauty and soother changes into pollutive environment after which authors ^{began to} recognize the importance of natural beauty and began writing about it.
