

The Time I Changed My Mind

Making the right decisions at the right time is pivotal to the success. Sometimes, people decide something and begin working on it. However, they ^{eventually} realise that it will not lead towards any fruitful results and make amendments or wholly change their plans. I also faced the similar situation, recently. I ^{have been} ~~was~~ ^{desirous} of appearing in CSS 2025 Exams, therefore I enrolled three courses in an online Institute and began to attend recorded lectures. After few days, I ~~is~~ brought home that these recorded lectures are outdated, moreover, the application has ^{the} few features of incompetent level. Fortunately, I came across the NOA Institute's YouTube channel while randomly scrolling down during my free time. It brought happiness to me to find out that NOA's ~~online academy~~ ^{online academy} gives a full package, all these features I was looking for including live classes, evaluation, news updates and counselling. So, I ^{have} joined NOA and became a part of its family.

~~It is hope~~ Today is my first day of classes, and I am very hopeful that I will be able to attain my maximum potential
