

Precis 2017:-

In this world, evil spread by misled activeness of people rather than by their laziness. Therefore devil remains busy in his affairs and always condemns lethargy. The world lacks passive and steady thought but not active virtues. In 1914, people would if statesmen, emperors, kings, journals, Generals and ~~go~~ journalists do nothing but only enjoy sunshine and consume tobacco than today people would be in better position. Similarly it would have been the possibility for statesman in 1919, that not to indulge in vassal treaty. After passing some time the worldly affairs might be run over. Even contemporary politicians could do better, if do nothing for a while. The people who ~~attended~~ have attended religious conferences could improve themselves by self analysis in isolation instead of condemning the length of ladies skirts and noisiness of dance bands.
