

Precis

Examination 1971

Poetry : Thought of millions

Spirit of poetry is concerned with masses of people and against individual affairs. The Poet, dealing with general idea, also affects himself because his hearing depends on other peoples and on means of communication. He writes the description that all people can share with him. Basically, Shakespeare's thoughts did not matter. But the political poets try to explain extensive present not past. Difference between him and his theme always exist. Some uncooperative elements become obstruct in his way to make incident his part, which are he is unable to understand.

Sometime he lost in issues which do not exist and other time tried to see broader event^{only} from narrow angle. Political poet swings between them, and the poet tried to explain what is best or what to compromise.

Total words :

words in Passage : 400

words in prev's : 130