Art and Literature: The Suitable Alternatives

The writer presents art and literature as successful tools to convey the voices of the subaltern. For this, he quotes the example of Palestinian filmmaker, Nizari Hassan, who reveals to the world the irony behind Israel's so called independence <sup>through</sup> his films.

The writer is of the view that the blind hatred for Zionists may vanish all the positivity of mind.

It can make one so obsessed with the colonialist's wrongdoings that it can obscure the actual aim of Palestinian liberation. Instead art and literature can be used as forces to fight the evils of Zionists. An example of this is Nizari Hassan's latest film "My Grandfather's path", which amidst of Israeli atrocities and world's hypocrisy, succeeded
