There is a popular notion that all the evils in the world are because of people always indulging themselves in some kind of tasks. However, the writer thinks that not laziness but misdirected achiveness leads world to doom. If people instead of showing achiveness take out time to rest, half of the problems of past would not have happened. Even at the present time, if politicians, rulers, statesmen and media person take out leisure time to enjoy and do nothing, the world would become a better place to live. Additionally, if they had shown <sup>active</sup> passive action instead of <sup>active</sup> action, the destructive world war would not have happened. Likewise, Versailles Conference also could have been eliminated. Also, if religious groups do not interfere in others personal lives, they are better off relaxing and meditating themselves.

The cold weather is more effective in temperate regions of Northern Europe. The cold climate reinforces activity in contrast to the hot climate which leaves no room for energy. Similarly, hot and cold climates are not beneficial as much as moderate cold climate is. The cold climate makes man numb and he has to put dire efforts to making a living.

In contrast, the climate of tropical region is hot in which not much efforts are required and comfortable living is easily attained. Alike co-relation between nature and climate in tropical and temperate regions, human beings also vary with seasons. In summer, man is stress free, but in winter, he makes physical and mental demands.
