Art and Morality

1. Introduction

   Thesis Statement: Art has deep impacts on moral values in society. Its influence can be used to promote virtue in society. However, Bad and immoral aat must be discourjed.

2. How Art influences the Morality in Society?

3. Manifestations where art promotes morality in Society

   a. Stories to teach moral lessons to childern
   b. Music as the food of Soul
   c. Pieces of Art promote revolutionary values in Society
   d. Art ends Hate and promotes love and Peace i.e. Art lessens distances between Pakistan and India.

4. How art sometime causes immorality

   a. Art as a tool of propoganda i.e. Mein Kimph.
   b. Certain movies promoting violence in society.
   c. Adult content on web negatively impact youth.

5. How art can be used to virtue, and negative impacts can be mitigated.

   a. Censorship of content promoting violence and negative values i.e. sexism
   b. Teaching Critical thinking to childern
   c. Encourajing moral art in society
   d. Spreading awareness and promoting education in Society.

6. Conclusion.

Introduction.

German Dictator Adolf Hitler wrote Mein Kamph while he was in jail. This book highly influenced the actions of German people in the coming years. It shows that how a piece of art can influence on enormous level, and can define intellectual and physical course of action. There are diverse examples where art promotes morality in Society. For instance, moral stories and good music. It brings people togather and removes distances. But bad art often misleads and can cause violence and crimes in society. As art has both good and bad sides depending upon how it is used; Therefore, good art must be promoted and encouraged whereas the negative consequences of bad art should be mitigated through awareness and critical thinking. In short, Art is a powerful tool that impacts society on large scale. Hence, steps should be taken to get best out of it, and avoid its bad consequences.