

2018 précis

Weather variations and human body

The Northern countries of the Europe are moderate in cold season. Cold weather stimulates energy to ~~throw~~ overcome the obstacles. However, we ~~lose~~ lose our hope and energy to overcome difficulties with full power. Moderate weather is better for human, while extremely cold or hot becomes unbearable. In normal weather, human are engaged with zeal and zest. However, in severe weather they become engaged in has own shield from severe weather. Protection from severe weather is expensive that create vacuum between body and its required food. On the otherhand the tropical area is better regarding expenditure and better health, because of fresh air and vegetative food. We should acclimatise with climate, in hot weather we can survive but coldness is difficult for human body.

basic grammar poor
sentences repeated and weak main idea picked but unable to explain in your own words
not satisfactory
spelling mistakes too 0/20

word count ????