

Democracy in Pakistan

Since the establishment of the current system in 2003, Pakistan is one of the youngest elections holds in 2008 were the first to conclude a complete 5-year term in the nation's political history. Pakistan has experienced many authoritative and democratic form of Govt since independence. Many democratic governments have governed the country but despite that politicians in Pakistan could not provide the basic facilities of life to the general public. Lack of timely, free and fair elections, the gap between political elite and public, martial-law, civil military relations, lack of education and awareness in the general public are some key hurdles in the success of democracy. For example, the Govt of Nawaz Sharif of almost 30 year, (could not) is elected on the basis of democracy but as time runs, they wanted to rule as a dictatorship in the country. Unfortunately there is also dypsty system in our political parties. This system leads political disturbance that bring many disasters in country like economic failure, education low quality, weak foreign policy etc. Due to the absence of democracy, our Pakistan's status is going on the other world, is badly image. To conclude, the democracy is the key factor of good governance and the disturbance in it cause failure in the good politics.

When a nation is ^{totally} collapsed, first, its democracy spoiled. The democracy is the key factor in the well being of any nation but when it is failed, so the then the nation also fails. In Pakistan the democracy is in a very bad condition, even there are is not a concept of People's electoral because of bribery and conspiracy. The votes are purchased and sold at high prices. The innocent people of Pakistan, for temporary benefit sold their important right in some rupees. The main cause arises when there is no existance of basic needs, people will sold what they have to get some money to fulfill their needs. The another failure of democracy is clearly shown in weak economy. As the prices of sugar are in drought day by day. People The economic condition inspite of having natural resources is in drain.

Unemployment, low education system and corruption increasing day by day just because of democracy failure.
