Read the following passage and answer the questions given at the end.

Fortunately, however, the growth (ترقی) of industrialism has coincided (بیک وقت ہونا) in the West with the growth of democracy. It is possible now, if the population of the world does not increase too fast, for one man's labour to produce much more than is needed to provide a bare subsistence (روزی) for himself and his family. Given an intelligent democracy not misled by some dogmatic creed (کٹر عقیدہ), this possibility will be used to raise the standard of life. It has been so used, to a limited extent (محدود حد تک) in Britain and America, and would have been so used more effectively but for war. Its use in raising the standard of life has depended mainly upon three things: democracy, trade unionism, and birth control. All three, of course, have incurred hostility (مخالفت کو دعوت دینا) from the rich. If these three things can be extended to the rest of the world as it becomes industrialized, and if the danger of great wars can be eliminated (ختم کرنا), poverty can be abolished (ختم کرنا) throughout the whole world, and excessive hours of labour will no longer be necessary anywhere. But without these three things, industrialism will create a regime like that in which the Pharaohs built the pyramids. In particular, if world population continues to increase at the present rate, the abolition of poverty and excessive work will be totally impossible. words = 210
