

Globalization brings another benefit which is the promotion of global diplomatic cooperation. The countries gather at many platforms and solves critical issues collectively through diplomatic channels. ~~Area~~ Actually, the growth of globalization has given rise to international organizations like United Nations, World Trade Organization. These organizations serve as a platform for diplomatic conflicts, negotiations and resolutions on a global scale. In point of fact, over the decades, the United Nations has helped to end numerous conflicts often through actions of security council and organ with primary responsibility through United Nations Charter. Such as, human rights violations, Sustainable development, Health, Peace and security, international law. The existence of these organizations and their conflict resolution efforts are outcome of globalization. (Global Issues, Peace and Security, 2018). In short, globalization encourages global diplomacy worldwide.