

Topic: The necessity of and resistance to, old-age homes in our society

Outline

1) Introduction

Thesis Statement:

Old-age homes are important segment of society and resistance to them is clearly prevalent in the society. Due to homelessness and abusive behaviour of children, old-age people are subject to mental and physical abuse. However, by providing old-age people with shelter and taking good care of them this resistance can be minimized.

2) The ^{concept} idea of old-age home in our society.

3) Necessity of old-age homes in our society.

a) Care of elders in the absence of children

b) Provide shelter and protection to homeless old-age people.

c) Socialisation of old-age people with the same age-group.

d) Protection from abusive behavior of young family members.

e) Improved life style of old-age people.

f) Better medical facilities to take care of sick old-age people.

4) Why resistance to old-age home prevails in our society?

a) Feelings of parents being left-over.

b) Societal pressure of "what others will say."

c) Fear of old-age people being maltreated in the old-age home.

d) Religious binding in the mind of children.

e) Presence of love for old-age people in the heart of family members.

f) Lack of privacy in old-age homes.

g) Absence of adequate food-facilities.

5) Steps to enhance the importance of old-age homes in our society.

a) More T.V advertisement to shed light on importance of old-age homes.

b) Building up of children trust relationship with old-age care centre.

c) Ensure the presence of well-trained doctors and nurses.

d) Proper Presence of proper infrastructure of old-age facilities in the country.

6) Conclusion.