Title: Association of Cultural and social aspects in society

¶ Culture has two main aspects; external or formal and internal or ideological. Both aspects are components of social structure. The cultural factors are strongly linked with and influenced by social structure, so cultural ~~problems~~ issues are studied in the light of social problems. The hampered growth of underdeveloped countries was due to the dominion of imperialist-colonists and remains of backward culture as evident by European colonisation of Asia, Africa and Latin America in the nineteenth century. Some of them had advanced feudal culture or tribalism. Their sociocultural development remained restricted till political independence. These societies were engaged in racial, religious and tribal rivalries which were aggravated by dominions. This structure was passed on to the newly liberated countries.
