Freedom in Education

There are three main perspectives regarding freedom in education. Some let children enjoy freedom regardless of their behaviours, others promote the idea of full supervision and some allow children full freedom but as a result of that they expect them to behave. Believing that freedom is linked with excellence is a philosophical thought. This (3rd) school of thought promotes/advocates the idea that the sole purpose of education is to provide atmosphere for growth. The author disagrees with the approach of ignoring significance of knowledge. In a society where everyone is interlinked it is fantasy to expect everyone to act together involuntarily. Socially education should be more than just a chance to grow. It must strengthen children morally and psychologically.
