Nizae Hassan, a Masshad-resident and Hafiz University-graduate, choosed the career of filmmaker. Being an anthropologist he produced his first film, named "Independence", based on Israel's absurd annexation of Palestine.

The movie gained a ground-breaking fame across the globe and thus inspired Nizae to produce a better version of this documentary.

Therefore, he contacted writer for production of documentary titled "My Grandfather's path". This documentary was about unveiling the inanity of Zionist settlers of Palestine. However it emphasized more on being different from those colonist in course of action to preserve the inner ideas and aspirations unlike them. Although, Al-Jazeera Arabic has featured his new documentary in three parts, it is still better to watch it uninterruptly at once.
