

It is generally believed that

It is thought of common people that there is contrast between laws of country and freedom of its people. Apparently it does not seem wrong. Every law <sup>imposes</sup> puts some restrictions on the citizens.

If there are more laws in a country, the number of collective restrictions also increases. Freedom of people is inhibited due to more restrictions. An opposition, less number of laws resulted in liberty of citizens.

