

Pakistan Women have the same chance as men.

① Introduction

Thesis Statement

Gender inequality is a prominent feature of many developing countries like Pakistan. Women in Pakistan do not have the same opportunities as men of this country. Women are being marginalised in all fields by Patriarchal Society of Pakistan. Although, few efforts are being made to end this dire situation but still women are not getting equal rights as men in this 21st century.

② Is gender inequality exist in Pakistan Society?

③ Pakistan's women do not have same opportunities as men

- ① Discrimination in wages of women and men in Pakistan
- ② Environment of workplace for women
- ③ Patriarchal culture still exist in some tribal areas
- ④ Low job opportunities for women in Pakistan
- ⑤ Education barriers for women
- ⑥ Patriarchy in Pakistan politics and political parties
- ⑦ Language and women: A big noom of gender inequality in Pakistan
- ⑧ Conflicts and exacerbation in miseries of women as compared to men
- ⑨ Women and social inequality

④ Nevertheless, this modern epoch is bringing some new ways for women in Pakistan

① many education institutes are being opened for women

② many Bills of Parliaments are being passed for women rights

The topic is not about rights, its about opportunities

③ Social media's participation for women rights

④ Women Participation in Sport; breaking gender stereotypes

⑤ Political reform of 2009 - Non Partisan women Parliamentary Caucus - a milestone effort for women

5 To take exception; women are still facing subjugation in Pakistan society

- a) Education hurdles are restraining women to get education
- b) Women's ~~promotion in Parliament~~ health issues remain unaddress in Pakistan
- c) Pakistan TV Industry indirectly marginalizing women
- d) Gender discrimination and less promotion of women in sports
- e) Politically and economically participation of women

6 Conclusion

Write on a lined paper and work on your presentation.

Pakistan women have the same chance as men

According to recent report of World Economic Forum, Pakistan ranks at 142 out of 146 countries in global gender index. This figure is showing how the women are living in Pakistan. Only four more countries are at <sup>below</sup> low condition than Pakistan. Out of these four one is its neighbour Afghanistan for which it's always using diplomatic language for women rights but why the country is not focusing itself - its report is highlighting the women miseries of this democratic country too. Gender inequality is the prominent feature of mostly developing countries like Pakistan. Women in Pakistan do not have the same opportunities as men. Women are being marginalized by the country's patriarchal culture. Although, few efforts have been made to end this dire condition but still women are not getting equal rights as men. There are many conditions in which women do not have the same options as men or not being treated as men. To begin with, the most pronounced color of gender inequality is seen at economic sector where there is a clear discrimination in wages and milieu

It's not about the rights. Legislation for education exists but equal opportunities to avail education does not. The topic is about chances and opportunities.

For women in contrast to men. Similarly, in some society especially in tribal areas, they always remain dominated by patriarchal culture. Not only this, in Pakistan, there are low job and education opportunities for them. In politics and in political parties, women are often subjugated by their male politicians and parties mostly remain dominated by men. Adding to this marginalization, in Pakistan, male mostly use cursing/abusive language that is related to female and it has become a norm of their culture. Moving toward catastrophes, as presently at peak in Pakistan like flood, these are further exacerbating miseries of women like health problem and personal unhygienic condition. In parallel other aspect is that women during these conflicts<sup>are</sup> remained ignored and do not play their role. More chaotic problem of women in Pakistan is their social crises like early marriage, savagery act, domestic violence and rape. Women are living in mayhem in all developing countries due to their own economic and social problem. Although, some efforts are being made through different means like media, educational opportunities,

Parliamentary acts & sports participation and by certain reform. As world is changing and its dimensions of progress are also changing, that's why all developing countries are also trying to come out from this gender issue & same go for Pakistan. But de facto women are still facing many gender inequalities in Pakistan.