Menon's agents had alerted him to what V. P. Menon was there waiting for him. Menon's agents had alerted him to what V. P. Menon was there waiting for the state of the state Jodnpur was up to. He told the young man accompanied him there. The urgent at viceroy's House, and reluctantly the young man accompanied him there. The urgent at viceroy s nouse, and reductantly the journey had arrived, Menon had to go on a frantic search for Viceroy, and tell him what had happened. Mountbatten responded immediately. He solemnly reminded Jodhpur that Jinnah could not guarantee any conditions he might make, and that accession to Pakistan would spell disaster for his state. At the same time, he assured him that accession to India would flout automatically mean end of his pleasure. Mountbatten left him alone with Menon to sign a provisional agreement.
