Title: India's Battle With Beggary

India has become the epicentre of cities of beggars. Foreign visitors for religious pilgrimages labeled India as cities of beggars. It is a matter of concern that how beggars shape the society. Many reasons fall behind tremendous increase in number of beggars. As Indians proved to heartwarming in dealing with beggars. Moreover, their religious scriptures also emphasized the reward in afterlife. Sometimes, beggary is transferred from parents to children. In addition, illiteracy among people instigates fear of imprecations from beggars in people. This in turn helps beggars at-large. Even some beggars enjoy high social status than their donators. Nonetheless, in this information Indians are paying attention to this emerging evil. No doubt, there are many social drivers of beggary but how to eradicate it is most important. Therefore, people must be taught social sciences to remove this social evil. Then they can learn that their blind assistance produces more evils rather than their self-satisfaction. State must contribute by implementing anti-beggar laws. So that, unhealthy practices be prohibited in sacred cities of India.
