

Is Peace an Illusion in the world full of weapons?

1. Introduction:

Thesis Statement: In this weaponised world, peace is an illusion. Many countries of the world appear to wish for peace without ~~even~~ <sup>willing to</sup> surrendering their weapons. These destructive weapons can not maintain peace. It can be achieved by understanding, not force.

Repetition

2. The reality of peace and war.

Relevance is vague

3. Peace is an illusion in this weaponised world

- a) Peace is not an absence of war.
- b) The era of Artificial Intelligence warfare makes peace elusive.
- c) Non nuclear states being pressurized by nuclear non proliferation institutes
- d) Warfare is acquired by almost all the countries of the world.
- e) For the better exports of weapons, conflicts are promoted.

Irrelevant

→ classify relevance to topic

4.

Peace is still a realistic possibility in this weaponised world.

- a) War is not the only reason that disturbs peace.
- b) Artificial Intelligence is playing important role in proliferating peace.
- c) Nuclear disarmament treaties played their role to stop proliferation of weapons.
- d) Weapons are acquired to maintain peace and for defense purposes.

Not reflected in thesis st

e) Weapons are basic need of the states that exist in an anarchic environment. SP

5. With existence of weapons, peace is never a thing that can be destined for.

a) Provoking a war has become a trend nowadays.

b) Artificial intelligence can be destructive beyond anyone's imagination.

c) Behaviour of nuclear armed states have made the treaties unsuccessful.

d) Warfare ~~is~~ the chief reason that makes peace elusive.

e) Anarchy is in interest of world's weapon exporters.

6. Conclusion

Peace is a desire, war is a fact; and history has never paid heed to human desires and ideals. Absolute peace is an illusion in this weaponised world.

Outline lacks concrete and relevant arguments

Avoid repeating points